 RSA 461-A (Parenting Rights & Responsibilities)

CROSS REFERENCE: Chapter 7 - Final Hearing

INTRODUCTION

In certain very limited circumstances, when considering an order for custody and/or visitation of the parties' children, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem.

COMMENT

The appointee must be certified as a guardian ad litem for domestic violence cases. Certifications are done by the Guardian ad Litem Board.

A guardian ad litem is not appropriately appointed in every domestic violence case in which the question of visitation or custody is raised. The court should be careful to advise the parties of the need to seek orders under RSA 458 or 461-A in the event a legal separation, divorce or parenting action is contemplated. The court should also carefully remind the parties that the domestic violence process is not a permanent process. The final order typically expires after one year. Nevertheless, in certain limited cases, such an appointment may be appropriate..

PROTOCOL 11-1

A guardian ad litem is not appropriately appointed in every domestic violence case in which the question of visitation or custody is raised. The court should be careful to advise the parties of the need to seek orders under RSA 458 or 461-A in the event a legal separation, divorce or parenting action is contemplated. The court should also carefully remind the parties that the domestic violence process is not a permanent process. The final order typically expires after one year. Nevertheless, in certain limited cases, such an appointment may be appropriate. The court should consider the following prior to appointment:

- a. Whether the physical/emotional safety of the children is at issue;

- b. Whether the parties will be able, with or without the assistance of the court, to reach agreement on visitation/custody issues;
- c. Whether the parties are represented by counsel;
- d. Whether a divorce, legal separation, or custody action is pending or contemplated by either of the parties and whether a GAL has already been appointed who could cross-assign here; or
- e. Seriousness of any allegation of drug or alcohol abuse.

PROTOCOL 11-2 Scope of Services

When a guardian ad litem is appointed, the court must carefully define the scope of services expected. Those shall not extend beyond the following:

- a. Limited preliminary investigation to ascertain the facts necessary to make a recommendation regarding the best custody and/or visitation plan for the children and parents;
- b. Report and recommendation to the court based upon the findings of the investigation. The report may be written or oral, as specified by the judge; and
- c. Advocating on behalf of the children's best interest at the final hearing.

COMMENT

It is not the role of the guardian ad litem to serve as counsel to either of the parties nor should the guardian ad litem ever mediate in these cases. Under no circumstances should the guardian ad litem serve the role as supervisor during either party's visits with the children.

PROTOCOL 11-3

The appointment responsibilities of the guardian ad litem should terminate with the issuance of the final order in the case.

PROTOCOL 11-4 Payment

Payment of the guardian ad litem shall be borne by the parties in a proportional amount, as the court may determine. Where the parties are indigent, guardian ad litem compensation shall be based upon the applicable fee schedule established by the supreme court of New Hampshire and paid by funds from the general fund subject to such limitations as may be established by administrative order of the family division and district court.
